1. About the Initiative

Taking a stand for our European values has never been more important. The European Capital of Democracy (ECoD) Initiative¹ has built a strong network of Cities fostering participation, exchanging best practice and boosting the adaptation and implementation of successful democracy projects across Europe. Together with citizens, politicians, and institutions, we innovate and improve our societies.

Multiple crises and a full-blown war have challenged Europe. After a tough decade for liberal democracies, citizens are more conscious today that they have to demand – and fight for – their freedom, peace and economic perspectives. Local democracies are proving to be strongholds, increasing democratic resilience and empowerment at the regional level, and providing a plethora of opportunities to be seized and best practice to be shared. Democracy does work, and we want to act now to spread the word.

Cities are incubators for democracy. They are best placed to safeguard and develop our self-government, protect the rule of law, and uphold human rights. This is because city administrations are closest to the needs, talents, and dynamics of their populations, and their scale makes them agile and flexible. They can tailor programmes, policies, infrastructure, and spatial development to fit their goals and budgets effectively. Cities and their Citizens can create opportunity and innovation for improving quality of life.

To identify, address and interlink these spearheads of Democratic Innovation, ECoD gemeinnützige GmbH² (hereinafter “ECoD NPO”) has created the ECoD City Network. By joining forces for democracy, these Cities share their expertise and their most innovative best practices in democracy promotion at the municipal level. Barcelona will take the lead from September 2023 to autumn 2024, and will hold the title of European Capital of Democracy.

European Capitals of Democracy attracts leading thinkers, highly motivated visitors, state-of-the-art technology developers, pre-eminent artists, and renowned journalists. Cities, after all, are the historic cradle of democracy. Joining the network and curating projects as a part of this process will in and of itself serve to enhance democratic practice:

- › Citizens of Europe have the opportunity to play a hands-on role in developing new forms of democratic politics: as committed representatives in civil society organisations, as jury members, as participants, and as visitors.

¹ For specific terms and definitions, please consult the Glossary. The capitalised terms shall have the meaning as defined in the Glossary.

² ECoD gemeinnützige GmbH is a non-profit limited liability company established under Austrian Federal Law and registered under FN 568933t in the Commercial Register of the Commercial Court of Vienna.

- › European politicians at all levels of government are inspired by best practice. They participate in an open, personal network of political innovators. An international, non-partisan network encompasses all levels of policy-making.
- › Partners of the ECoD Initiative participate in launching a sustainable institution built to last for decades, which will make a substantial contribution to securing our European way of life.
- › Cities joining the network deepen the reach and impact of Democracy Projects through a fruitful exchange with Citizens and international visitors. High-level events lay the groundwork for lasting cooperation and co-creation.

Being a member of the ECoD City Network strengthens a City's reputation and enhances its importance as a centre of education, innovation, and business. Cooperation with universities and think tanks carrying out research into democratic activities and projects is fostered under the umbrella of the Initiative.

ECoD NPO, supported by the Innovation in Politics Institute GmbH (hereinafter "the Institute") and its partners, will in addition host a series of high-level international events. Significant networking events will bring together leading politicians, experts, and representatives from the world of arts and culture and media from across Europe and beyond. A thriving active civil society will engage in a deeper dialogue with the city administrations.

The ECoD Initiative was launched in 2020 under the patronage of Ms Dubravka Šuica, Vice-President of the European Commission, and under the auspices of Ms Marija Pejčinović Burić, Secretary General of the Council of Europe. ECoD NPO is a non-profit limited liability company established under Austrian Federal Law supported by the Institute. Based in Vienna and Berlin, with partners in 15 countries, the Institute constitutes a Europe-wide network dedicated to improving democracy across borders and beyond party lines.

2. Why become a Capital of Democracy?

A City holding this title enjoys a wide range of benefits, such as an enhanced international reputation as a centre of democratic innovation, the chance to host international events and meetings of leading European politicians, and of course a boost to civic pride. The media coverage focuses on local best practices. All cities joining the ECoD City Network profit from mutual exchange of knowledge and experience, access to international expertise, and cooperation.

The European Capital of Democracy hosts and presents a year-long programme comprising various projects aimed at strengthening democracy in Europe and beyond. All Citizens are invited to participate and contribute to this endeavour together with city councils, scientific and academic institutions, NGOs, businesses, and associations. Visitors from all over Europe – politicians, experts, artists, citizens, and members of the media – will be invited to observe and to participate in these efforts.

Selected by a network of up to 10,000 European citizens – the Citizens' Jury – the European Capital of Democracy hosts a lively programme, featuring established projects and events. Together with its cooperation partners, various organisations, foundations, and institutions, it bundles initiatives on topics vital to democracy, such as Community, Empowerment, Participation, Sustainability and Technology, as core elements of deliberative democracy.

ECoD NPO's contributions to the selected European Capital of Democracy's Programme Year are designed to have a substantial impact. They aim to attract large audiences, sponsorship support, and media interest. In addition to presenting and expediting its own outstanding projects, the European Capital of Democracy also hosts high-profile international events³ as part of the Programme Year:

- › The most innovative and outstanding Participation Projects are showcased at an International Exchange event on citizens' participation.
- › Climate Protection formats to support municipalities in their efforts to combat the climate crisis.
- › The Art of Democracy, a transnational participatory art project around the topic of democracy, featuring local and internationally renowned artists and curated by preeminent art experts.
- › A politics jam including an International Youth Think Tank conference will attract young changemakers.

³ The events will be staged as live, digital or hybrid events according to the prevailing COVID-19 situation.

- › The ACT NOW Mayors' Conference, where international mayors, local innovators and young changemakers meet to tackle global challenges at a local level.
- › The annual Innovation in Politics Awards which showcases 80 best practice projects in 8 categories (e.g. Climate Protection, Social Cohesion, Democracy).
- › Other partners, organisations and initiatives can also feature in the programme, corresponding to the local institutional environment and the focus of the Programme Year.

To facilitate the management, coordination, and preparation of the ECoD programme and accompanying events with the City-Designate, a Steering Group will be established six to nine months prior to the official opening of the ECoD Programme Year. Representatives of ECoD NPO and the City will coordinate with the relevant stakeholders to plan and monitor the implementation of the individual activities, elements and projects.

ECoD NPO supports the City with its expertise and provides the framework for setting up the Initiative. The Institute and other partners contribute their established formats for inclusion in the programme, which create a Europe-wide impact and attract an international audience.

3. Stages and Timeline

The second ECoD Call for submissions is open from February 2023.

The following five stages will ensure a fair and open selection process for the title of European Capital of Democracy.

STAGE 1 Declaration of Intent

With their binding Declaration of Intent to participate in the Call, Cities provide a technical, organisational and Democracy self-evaluation (see prerequisites below).

STAGE 2 Admission to the Call

ECoD NPO screens Declarations of Intent for admissibility and completeness, including a check of the prerequisites, and informs the Interested Cities about the decision.

STAGE 3 Submission – Call Application

Admitted Cities complete their Call submissions, including a mission statement and project descriptions, and become Member Cities (members of the ECoD City Network).

STAGE 4 Evaluation – Experts' Jury

The Experts' Jury evaluates all Call submissions, visits the most promising contenders and draws up a Shortlist of max. five Nominee Cities.

STAGE 5 Selection – Citizens' Jury

The Citizens' Jury selects the European Capital of Democracy from the list of Nominee Cities.

Cities must submit a binding Declaration of Intent by 15 April 2023. ECoD NPO then checks the self-evaluation of technical and organisational prerequisites, which will be concluded by 30 April 2023 at the latest. Until 30 June 2023, Interested Cities then have time to work on their mission statement, executive summary, current and completed Democracy Projects and project ideas, which will form a part of the upcoming Programme Year.

After a formal check of all complete Call submissions, the Experts' Jury will draw up a Shortlist of up to five outstanding contenders (the Nominee Cities) by November 2023. The Citizens' Jury will then select the European Capital of Democracy, to be publicly announced in December 2023.

Over the subsequent eight months, the second European Capital of Democracy will prepare for the Programme Year 2024/25 together with the Institute and its partners. The City will be inaugurated with official opening festivities accompanied by City-wide festivities in autumn 2024.

Interested Cities enter the process by declaring their intent to participate in the ECoD Call. After admission, they will work on their submissions for the Call, including their current and completed Democracy Projects and new project ideas. All Member Cities are invited to contribute to and be a part of the Programme Year in the title-holding City. Member Cities can stay in the ECoD City Network to contribute, coach and mentor newcomers.

4. Declaration of Intent

4.1 Eligibility

Find out if your City can become a European Capital of Democracy.

This Call is open to Cities with a population of over 100,000 within the members of the Council of Europe enjoying full rights of representation (currently Albania, Andorra, Armenia, Austria, Azerbaijan, Belgium, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Bulgaria, Croatia, Cyprus, Czech Republic, Denmark, Estonia, Finland, France, Georgia, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Iceland, Ireland, Italy, Latvia, Liechtenstein, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Malta, Moldova, Monaco, Montenegro, Netherlands, North Macedonia, Norway, Poland, Portugal, Romania, San Marino, Serbia, Slovakia, Slovenia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Türkiye, Ukraine, United Kingdom), and Kosovo.

In individual cases worthy of special consideration, the ECoD NPO may also admit cities with a population of just under 100,000 to the Call.

Cities are defined as local administrative units with forms of legal self-determination and budgetary autonomy and with an elected or democratically appointed executive leadership, including metropolitan areas and conurbations.

In particular, the Interested City must confirm that it meets the following three criteria relating to the fundamentals of democracy:

- > Multiple parties compete in free and fair elections that are held on a regular basis in the City.
- > Elected municipal governments can operate without interference from unelected bodies.
- > State institutions, e.g. the legislature, the judiciary and specific oversight agencies, oversee the local government to ensure checks between institutions and to prevent the abuse of power.

There must be no scheduled elections on the local, municipal or city level, directly affecting the Mayor and/or body entrusted with the resolution and implementation of European Capital of Democracy in the title-holding City during the Programme Year (September/October 2024 to September/October 2025). Cities with such elections between December 2023 and August 2024 will be subject to case-by-case assessment by the Experts' Jury. ECoD NPO is available to discuss the matter at any point in time, ideally as early as possible in the process.

Please refer to the Exclusion Criteria (see Annexes) before submitting a proposal.

4.2 Prerequisites

In order to fully benefit from holding the title of European Capital of Democracy, Interested Cities need to be prepared for the challenges that come with implementing the year-long series of events and activities. A non-partisan approach as well as strong and broad political support are the best basis for a successful implementation of the European Capital of Democracy Programme Year.

Becoming a European Capital of Democracy is a unique opportunity for Cities to showcase democratic milestones and innovative ideas that take democracy to a new level. A European Capital of Democracy therefore needs to have a City government with a clean track record regarding democratic processes. The Democracy self-evaluation (see Annexes) element of the process is based on the Council of Europe's "European Label of Governance Excellence" (ELoGE). Please note that Cities which have ELoGE accreditation are not required to complete the Democracy self-evaluation.

ECoD NPO and the Institute will complement the City's Projects by holding events in established formats such as the Innovation in Politics Awards and the ACT NOW Mayors' Conference in the title-holding City to ensure a Europe-wide impact. To successfully host these events, provide a vibrant stage, and foster international exchange, the City needs to meet specified technical and organisational prerequisites. The following overview will help Interested Cities to identify whether they have the necessary facilities and infrastructure.

The self-evaluation of technical and organisational prerequisites covers, in particular, the following aspects with regards to the ECoD Programme Year (in the respective year after the Call, see Annexes - Programme visualisation for ideas):

> Regular (major) events

Provide a complete list of events which are regularly held in the City and which could be relevant for the Programme Year and their connection with the ECoD projects and event formats.

> Other titles

Similar titles or events the City has been currently awarded, have applied for or will be holding in the near future (e.g. European Capital of Culture, European Youth Capital, Green Capital, Manifesta, iCapital etc.).

> Facilities and infrastructure

> Venues

Provide a list of between three and five relevant event venues of different sizes and their availability for each month for the Programme Year.

› Transport

Describe your City's transportation situation with regard to both ease of accessibility for national and international visitors and transportation within the City.

› Accommodation

State the direct (within the City area) and indirect (within the local area) accommodation capacities for 3 and 4 star rooms. Mark the months with the highest occupancy rates within the Programme Year.

› Significant construction projects and road works

If applicable, provide an overview of the most relevant and substantial urban and infrastructure projects scheduled for the ECoD Programme Year.

This self-evaluation will help assess how well the City's infrastructure can cope with set maximum visitor numbers with respect to transportation and accommodation during given time frames.

5. Admission & Phases

The ECoD Team checks if the Interested City is suitable for participation in the process, fulfils the formal criteria and meets the organisational and technical prerequisites. Qualified Cities will be admitted to the ECoD Call and officially enter the Submission Phase. Until that time, the process results are kept confidential from outside parties. All Cities completing the Call submission become members of the ECoD City Network.

In order to assess the fulfilment of the formal criteria, we ask Interested Cities to upload the specified documents using the Participant Portal. The Interested City nominates a representative responsible for providing the following documents and information:

Admission Phase

- › Filing of the Declaration of Intent, including the
 - › evidence of support for participation in the European Capital of Democracy Call from the City's highest political representative, e.g. (First) Mayor
 - › Democracy self-evaluation (online questionnaire), including co-operations with and contacts to Civil Society Organisations
 - › Self-evaluation of the technical and organisational prerequisites (online questionnaire)

Submission Phase

- › Adoption of a City Council resolution (or similar) for the participation in the ECoD Call
- › Establishment of a representative (single point of contact) by the City
- › Establishment of a project team and its responsibilities
- › Submission of programme proposals⁴ including images, videos and website URLs (in the predefined form and structure), including an executive summary, comprising details of
 - › mission statement
 - › current and completed projects
 - › project ideas

All Call submissions that have been in full and on time will, after screening by ECoD NPO, be forwarded to the Experts' Jury for evaluation.

Preparation and Implementation Phase (City Designate only):

- › Confirmation of the representative's power to act and sign on behalf of the City
- › Designation of representatives for the ECoD Steering Board

⁴All information must be provided in English (with certified translations provided where necessary), and must be correct and complete, readable, accessible and printable. Proposals must not contain classified information, and must comply with ethical principles, including compliance with the highest standards of research integrity, in particular, avoiding fabrication, falsification and plagiarism.

6. Call Submission

In order to compete for the title of European Capital of Democracy, Cities have to submit a strong mission statement, a convincing selection of three proven and innovative democracy projects, and three pitches for new projects in the pipeline, to be presented and advanced further during the Programme Year. ECoD NPO recommends to have the documents proofread by proficient English speakers prior to submission.

6.1 Mission statement

Before laying out the individual proposed activities for the ECoD Programme Year, the City should provide an outline of its aspirations, presented in a compelling mission statement. Where does the energy for Democratic Innovation and drive for engaging more Citizens come from? Who is the City competing with, where does it draw inspiration from?

The mission statement is a declaration of what makes your initiatives important. It is intended to guide the actions of the administration and draw in Citizens by explaining what the City sets out to accomplish:

- > Keep it short and concise – provide a summary of the City's mission in just a few sentences
- > Think long-term – the mission statement is an investment in your City's future
- > Do not make it too limiting – your plans could be relevant to other cities in your country or abroad

Cities should focus on the following four key considerations when preparing their mission statements:

- > Value – what is the value to both Citizens and public administration?
- > Inspiration – why should Citizens want to participate in these projects?
- > Plausibility – make it sound reasonable
- > Specificity – tie it back to the City's activities

The mission statement should include:

- > A title and a teaser
- > A brief summary
- > The City's ambitions with regards to Democratic innovation and participation

6.2 Democracy Projects

The projects submitted by the Cities should make a substantial contribution in the five areas targeted by ECoD Initiative. All projects must therefore tackle issues related to one or more of the five Dimensions of Democracy (see Annexes): Community, Empowerment, Participation, Sustainability and Technology. Please note that at least one of the projects must tackle the issue of climate change.

6.2.1 Current and completed projects

By presenting three of their most ambitious and successful Democracy Projects, Cities make a valuable contribution to the ECoD City Network, and provide the basis for the Programme Year's content. When choosing the projects, it is essential that the projects and their accompanying activities have potential for application on a larger scale elsewhere with a sizable impact. These projects can either be on-going, in an evaluation phase, or successfully completed with defined follow-up measures.

The City must provide the following information for each Democracy Project, paying particular attention to their degree of Collaboration, Exchange, Innovation, Organisation & Output (for details see section 7.1):

- > Title
Informative and compelling
- > Project type
Best practice, event, information campaign, strategy, or tool
- > Description
Concise summary and detailed description of the project
Who are your partners in the development, financing and implementation of this project?
- > Contribution
How does the project contribute to the overall mission statement?
How would it be integrated / featured in the ECoD Programme Year?
- > Target group(s)
Who is this activity targeted at? How many people will it reach? Does the project have potential for application in other parts of the country or abroad?
- > Communication
Description of the measures for advertising to and communicating with the target audience.
How are these measures monitored and evaluated?
- > Project setup
Which departments and employees are part of the project team?
Which external partners are on board and in what roles?
- > Civil Society Organisations
Are Civil Society Organisations or representatives involved in the project?

› Duration and time frame

Is it a one-off, regular or permanent project? When is it running?

› Budget

Please provide an estimate of the project budget, including city resources, personnel costs, internal costs, external costs etc., and an indication of how it has been funded. Please get in touch in case of unclarities.

› Planning costs

How much did you spend on planning and preparing the project?

› Operating costs

What are the yearly costs for running the project?

› Communication costs

How much is spent on communicating the project on a yearly basis?

› Extra budget

What budget can the City assign for additional measures in the Programme Year?

› Funding

Did the City fund the project with additional funding sources (regional, national, international, third parties...) and to what extent?

› Programme Year integration

How will you showcase this project during the ECoD Programme Year? How can it be featured or integrated in an event?

6.2.2 Project ideas

The City must also convincingly demonstrate how it will ensure substantial democratic progress beyond its current and completed projects during its year as titleholder. To this end, the City describes a minimum of three additional concrete measures that improve local democracy in relation to one of the defined Dimensions of Democracy (see below), to be featured within the City's Programme Year, and which will have a lasting positive impact on the quality of the local democracy. These project ideas must have the support of the City council (or equivalent) and be included in the city budget.

The City provides a short written pitch for each project idea, including a self-produced video. The pitch should be structured as follows:

› Challenge:

- › Description: What challenges are your Citizens facing? Are they unique to your city?
- › Pain point: Of these challenges, what is the single most significant challenge that your Citizens face?
- › Key trend: What democratic trend is your project connected with?

› Solution:

- › Benefits: What do Citizens stop losing out on?
- › Advantages: If Citizens decide not to participate in the project and opt for taking the conventional route, what will they miss out on?

- > Impact:
 - > Target: When would Citizens use the services that your project provides or become a part of your project?
 - > Size: What level of engagement among the inhabitants of your City and the surrounding area could be achieved (how many people)?
 - > Traction: What existing data shows there is a need for your project?
- > Execution:
 - > Rollout: How will you distribute and disseminate your project to your citizens?
 - > Financing: Can the project be implemented within existing budgets at the planned scale?
 - > Future milestones: What is the nearest, most exciting accomplishment that you are aiming for?
- > Support:
 - > What does the project need, e.g. in terms of consulting, financing and partners?
 - > How can the implementation of the project idea be assured?

Please note that the current and completed Democracy Projects, as laid out in the City's Call submission, have to be financed, organised and implemented by the City. ECoD NPO will aim to support the title-holding City – if requested – to develop these project ideas during the course of the Programme Year, using innovative and structured methods and tools such as design thinking, local labs or other co-design and co-creation methods/formats (note: financing via the City, third parties and/or institutional partners is required). ECoD NPO cannot bear any costs of the City.

7. PROGRAMME YEAR

The European Capital of Democracy will host a whole series of activities to celebrate democracy, debate pressing challenges, and showcase best practices in order to create an engaging, diverse, and inclusive programme for a Europe-wide audience. Therefore, the city will contribute activities to make its projects and project ideas visible and include other existing events into the programme.

The City is expected to invite local stakeholder and international partners and networks to contribute to the Programme Year and to support activities and events by facilitating, liaising and/or providing venues and services, especially for civil society and non-profit organisations. In addition to the City's efforts regarding its own projects, events and activities, ECoD NPO will showcase the most outstanding European participation and citizens' projects within the scope of its established event/competition formats, which will foster international exchange. To generate interest in the core elements of the Programme Year, a lively launch event should take place, co-designed by the City and ECoD NPO to kick off the series of events, conferences, workshops and exhibitions.

Successful implementation of the projects, events and activities, the smooth operation of the events, and close cooperation with the Institute and third parties is therefore essential for the launch and implementation of the programme. A joint Steering Group, including representatives of the City Designate, ECoD NPO and relevant stakeholders, will be set up to plan, coordinate and monitor all aspects of the ECoD Initiative.

The Programme Year in the title-holding City forms the heart of the ECoD Initiative, and provides each year with a unique setting and character. Once the City has been designated, it is expected to provide in particular:

- > their vision for the Programme Year, with a special focus on the opening festivities and a closing ceremony
- > a list of all events to be featured and showcased
- > resources for a joint communication team
- > a plan of communication and marketing measures to make projects visible
- > support for a presentations to local partners and stakeholders
- > contacts to international networks and initiatives who could events to the City
- > lists of possible supporters and help with acquiring funds

8. Selection by the Juries

The unique selection process is designed to ensure methodological credibility as well as the adherence to the rules and procedures of the ECoD Initiative.

8.1 Experts' Jury – Shortlist selection

The Experts' Jury is made up of highly respected experts and practitioners in the field of academia, civil society, arts and business. Its members will assess the level of ambition, innovation and creativity of each City's Democracy Projects based on the fair and transparent selection process, taking particular account of the respective local objectives, circumstances, and priorities of the specific City. Acting as a pre-selection panel, the members of the Experts' Jury audit all of the Cities' Call submissions, conduct on-site interviews, and draw up the Shortlist of the Nominee Cities. The Experts' Jury will evaluate the organisational capacity and infrastructure required for the implementation of the City's Democracy Projects in the following areas:

CRITERIA	DESCRIPTION
Collaboration	Active partnerships with other organisations, institutions and stakeholders
Exchange	Communication, dissemination and sharing of local initiatives
Innovation	Ambition and appeal of the programme and its main activities
Organisation	Management capacity, project and budget resources
Output	Planned activities and dissemination measures, and how effectively they will reach the target audiences, media and citizens

Performance in these areas compared to the ambition and scope of the City's mission statement will be crucial in the overall assessment of the Call submission. The Experts' Jury will seek to make contact with the City if further clarification is required on important aspects relating to the criteria. The Cities are therefore asked to provide relevant references and contacts via the submission platform. To find out more about the current members of the Experts' Jury, visit the ECoD Initiative website (www.capitalofdemocracy.eu).

8.2 Citizens' Jury – Final selection

As a living example of participatory practice, a jury of up to 10,000 Citizens – from all member states of the Council of Europe enjoying full rights of representation and Kosovo – will make the final decision. The Citizens' Jury will select a City from the Shortlist based on its members' considered judgement. Voting takes place online in English via a secure platform. The Citizens' Jury consists of a cross-section of society and it is designed by ECoD NPO to be as representative as possible so that the decision of the Citizens' Jury is transparent, objective, and fair.

9. Legal Notice

By submitting the Declaration of Intent, the Participants declare that they are aware of all the contents and legal conditions of the present ECoD Call and its Annexes, which form an integral part of this Call, and that they accept them as unrestrictedly binding at each stage of its participation in the ECoD Initiative.

10. Miscellaneous

10.1 Advisory Board

The Advisory Board serves as an independent sounding board for ECoD NPO and contributes by providing the experience and know-how of its members. It provides advice, suggestions and recommendations regarding the programme and its projects. It provides consultation on all relevant ECoD Initiative activities and collects suggested learnings for upcoming European Capitals of Democracy. It issues a yearly report and advises on the development of the ECoD Initiative.

For more information and details on the Advisory Board's current members, visit the ECoD Initiative website (www.capitalofdemocracy.eu).

10.2 Monitoring

In addition to measuring and tracking all actions and output related to the Call internally, ECoD NPO will appoint a partner institution to provide academic assistance and will constantly monitor and evaluate the European Capital of Democracy Initiative over the years.

10.3 Points of Contact

When contacting ECoD NPO's Office, please use the email address office@capitalofdemocracy.eu for all requests regarding the Call and the ECoD Initiative. For reasons of professional conduct and impartiality, please refrain from getting in touch with members of the Jury and/or Advisory Board directly.

10.4 Sustainability

We recognise that a healthy planet is a prerequisite for upholding our values of human rights, social balance and democracy. We, therefore, aim to reduce our carbon footprint by pursuing the objective of net carbon neutrality.

All members and partners of the European Capital of Democracy initiative shall join us on this mission by:

- > making sustainability an important factor in all purchasing decisions and communicating to all suppliers that we seek climate-friendly options
- > avoiding unnecessary travel, choosing low carbon means of transport where feasible and compensating for emissions from air travel
- > using renewable energy to power offices and reducing energy use as far as possible
- > offering carbon-neutral options as a default
- > reducing the amount of waste to a minimum
- > making all events, activities and formats as green and resource-efficient as possible

11. Annexes

Any form of participation in the ECoD Initiative, regardless of the stage of participation and including the present Call, is only possible subject to the binding conditions contained in the following enclosures:
